Help, Hope & Healing

A gentleman in his 50's was referred to NLC from the brain injury society. He was looking for ways to deal with the stress in his life as well as ways to cope with his short term memory loss. Offering this man a listening ear and helping him to distinguish between the things he has control over and the ones that are beyond his control, he was able to reduce the anxiety and stresses in his life. The centre was able to offer suggestions that he implemented in his life that allowed him to compensate for his short term memory loss. Instead of becoming anxious about what he had lost due to his injury, he is now in the habit of looking at what he can do and focusing on the here and now instead of his past.

Anxiety and stress come in so many shapes and forms and does not discriminate in age or gender.
